COVID-19 CONCERNS

Travel

- Currently, there are no Covid-19 restrictions upon entry to Kenya.
- Kenya relies heavily on tourism, not just for GDP, but also to fund nature conservation across vast stretches of the country. This is Kenya's most important natural resource. This means that they are going above and beyond to make airports safe, hygienic and secure, as well as to keep the borders open.
- It is important that you also check your government website with the latest requirements and regulations for travel.

Safari

- Both of our locations are 100% compliant with the latest Kenyan requirements for Covid-19 and are maintaining international standards of sanitisation, social-distancing, and health checks.
- A safari, and nature retreat, is the most Covid-19 appropriate travelling you can do. There is plenty of space, and social distancing is a norm! Most of our activities and time spent will be outdoors with only our group nucleus.
- The lodge staff at Tawi and Watamu Treehouse are regularly tested for Covid-19. The staff are staying at the lodge locations, and are not travelling to and from their home paces and the lodges.
- As part of your Kenya Yoga Retreat package we offer Flying Doctors Emergency Relief Cover. This is insurance that you will be air lifted to safety, or private medical care facilities in Nairobi, in the unlikely event you need it.
